The procedures used in this office involve physical medicine commonly defined as skin surface reflexes, hard and soft tissue manipulation. Hard tissue manipulation (chiropractic adjustments) may be incorporated infrequently in the form of spinal, cranial, and or extremity manipulation. As a general rule hard and soft tissue manipulation, eye gaze and leg movement facilitate stimulation of neurogenic reflex activity of the central nervous system in an effort to correct and or stabilize neural pathways, organ function, muscular activity commonly called functional neurology.

Soft tissue manipulation steps are a combination of rubbing, stretching, and pinching type activities. Steps that are known to cause brief physical discomfort include stimulation of internal jaw muscles. This step is frequently employed on every visit. A clean finger cot is always used for this procedure. If you have a latex sensitivity please let me know.

Insurance benefits coverage vary significantly from policy to policy and often with a reimbursement rate for chiropractic care at a predetermined and or usual and customary value. This benefits value can range from $25 to 80% coverage. We have seen an average reimbursement rate of approximately $45-$95 for our general office visit. Please note Medicare has a reimbursement rate of ~$23 and frequently denied. Medicare does not cover Examination (initial visit) only for therapy treatment related to an injury(s).
